

BEAUTIFUL ADVICE

Have the courage to live a life true to yourself, not the life others expect of you. "There is nothing noble in being superior to your fellow man; true nobility is being superior to your former self." If you blame it on someone else, don't expect it to get better.

You will shake off negativity and be neutral. Be humble, be humane and show compassion while interacting with the needy. Accept the fact that every person you will meet will bring changes in your life, and some of them will have the greatest impact and some will put you in the darkest night. Inactivity will take place. The same Quran that will make people see truth and guidance is the same Quran that will lead others astray how wonderful. Praise, obey and give your life to Allah SWT, live the way Allah created to live following the morals and ways of the Rasul. Use this moment to send as many salutations as you can upon the Prophet peace and blessings be upon him. So also, some are born into non-Muslim families but later accepted Islam. Others are reading. Put it in your dua especially at fajr, try to wake at least an hour earlier before fajr and ask Allah to make your wish come true. The smaller your circle, the clearer your vision. Some days, you will wake up and not want to talk to anyone around you and just want to be alone. And there are people around us who loves us so much, people who are willing to give what we need, that they will do everything for us to see our worth, but we choose to neglect them. Try as much as you can to use your little free times for zikr " like when in the elevator, in the bus, while waiting in the lounge, when climbing the stairs. Sometimes we love people so deepy that we forget to love ourselves. Respect everyone, but trust few. We were taught to follow a pattern and live our lives to rules set by the society. This phase is called hibernation. But life is more than that. Accept the fact that there are people who will turn their backs to you when you need them the most. They are the living proof that you matter, and that you are stronger now. You will detach yourself slowly from people around you and start living without them. Everyone has an hourglass; everyone has their own limitations. Everything that happened in your past will always stay there as you continue your journey in life. The real world is like nothing you ever expected. No one is worth begging for. Never beg someone to love you back or be with you when you want to. So remember to love, but to always love yourself, too. We give others the chance to be our world and be in every part of it. The people you loved will always be a part of you.
